United Cerebral Palsy of New York City, Inc. (UCP of NYC) is a leading nonprofit agency in New York City providing direct services, technology, and advocacy to children and adults with cerebral palsy and other developmental disabilities.

UCP of NYC is an award winning multi-service provider, community partner, and an employer of choice. We deliver more than 75 comprehensive programs - including healthcare, education, technology, residential, recreation, and habilitative services - to over 14,000 New York City residents and families annually.
HISTORICAL TIMELINE

A time of organization and new beginnings. Frustrated by the absence of services, a pioneering group of families band together to establish UCP of NYC. Clinics and research receive support, while massive fund-raising and public relations efforts are launched.

1950’s
1. Leonard and Isabelle Goldenson, one of UCP of NYC’s founding families
2. Two boys learn to walk with assistance

1960’s
1. The Beatles give a charity concert benefitting UCP of NYC at Paramount Theatre in 1964
2. Members of rock group KISS visit the children’s program

1970’s
1. Adult continuing education in the 1970’s
2. Members of rock group KISS visit the children’s program

1980’s
1. The signing of the Willowbrook Consent Decree signals a massive infusion of government funds into community-based services. UCP of NYC responds by opening residential facilities, more adult day programs, and acquires licensure to open and operate clinics.
2. Program development continues strong as New York State leads the nation in establishing community-based residential, day, and early childhood programs.

1. Disabilities issues receive national attention with the passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act and an Office of Consumer Advocacy is formed.
2. Technology Resource Centers are established in Brooklyn and Manhattan to serve all five boroughs with information and access to assistive technology.
3. UCP of NYC opens new campuses in the Bronx and Staten Island and constructs the Millicent V. Hearst Children’s Center.

1. Family Support Services continue to expand offerings with new innovations in assistive devices, service coordination, vocational/employment assistance, and family reimbursement. Samuel Hausman Activities, Resource & Education (SHARE) Centers open offering information, resources, and assistance to families and children with special needs.
2. A renewed emphasis is placed on mission-driven programming, innovation, and community outreach and support. UCP of NYC develops community partnerships in an effort to shift center-based programming toward new ways of sharing resources, offering program participants increased opportunities for meaningful inclusion in the community.

2010 and beyond...
A renewed emphasis is placed on mission-driven programming, innovation, and community outreach and support. UCP of NYC develops community partnerships in an effort to shift center-based programming toward new ways of sharing resources, offering program participants increased opportunities for meaningful inclusion in the community.

BECAUSE OF YOU...
The mission of United Cerebral Palsy of New York City is to create opportunities for people with disabilities to lead independent and fulfilling lives.
Four decades ago my wife Anita and I adopted our son, Michael, and welcomed him into our life. When we discovered that Michael had cerebral palsy and would need special attention and care, it was immediately obvious that we were going to face a lot of unexpected challenges. Unfortunately, during this time there was very little help available for children with disabilities, and like every parent, we wanted the very best for our child. We needed information and support, we needed someone to give us guidance, and most importantly we needed to know that our son would be given the opportunity to reach his own greatest potential. And so began our long, fruitful partnership with UCP of NYC.

We have always looked for ways to expand Michael’s world and UCP of NYC has been right there beside us working hard to make it happen. When we felt Michael needed a weekend play program with other kids, we discussed the project with UCP of NYC, and together we developed what would eventually grow into a citywide Saturday recreational program. When Michael was 16, we helped launch Club Disco, which has now become one of UCP of NYC’s most popular activities for teens and young adults.

Beyond activism, I wanted to do even more to help shape the future of services for people with disabilities. I also wanted to give back to the organization serving my son. So, I offered up the business skills I learned working so many years in the financial industry, and joined the UCP of NYC Board of Directors. In all the years that I served as the Treasurer, and now the President of the Board, I have been happy to be part of an organization that walks the talk of its mission. My goal has always been to make sure that families have a place to turn, and that their children can have as positive an experience as my son.

Anita and I have dedicated our lives to giving Michael choices and to making sure he is surrounded by people who encourage his happiness and help him lead the most fulfilled life possible. We are proud to be part of the UCP of NYC family and are so grateful for everyone who has supported us this year and in those to come.

Thank you.

Gary Geresi
President of the Board
While this Annual Report serves to highlight our 2011 agency milestones and achievements—and I am proud to report that together we continue to reach many—we cannot ignore the uncertain times in which we all live. This economic recession is not nearly as catastrophic as the Great American Depression, but for most of us, politically and economically, it is quite a roller coaster ride.

Throughout the country, people with disabilities face an ever-changing landscape for the funding of the Medicaid they receive. More and more, payments for their long term care and health services have been put in the hands of managed care insurance companies, with mixed results. Currently here in New York, a similar managed care trail is being blazed by our state government. The issue is simple. At the current rate of spending, there won’t be enough state and federal funding to care for the next generation of people needing services. We agree. While this makes for difficult decision making, the good news is that the community of New York provider agencies has been completely engaged in the redesign process. As managed care plans are rolled out over the next several years to over one million New Yorkers with disabilities, nearly 130,000 of which have developmental disabilities, we understand the important role we must play. The task is daunting, but we do feel this course of action will ensure a more stable future for New Yorkers with disabilities and we look forward to continuing to be part of the solution.

UCP of NYC will, of course, be asked to play a vital role in the planning and implementation of the new delivery system. I can tell you without hesitation that we are ready for this challenge, but we cannot do it alone. Our community partners in health care will play an even more critical role than ever before. Our staff will face new, yet exciting, training and service challenges. Most importantly, the individuals and families we serve will be offered even more choices about how and where they want to live their lives.

With these important changes occurring in tandem with a reduction in state Medicaid funding, we know that the terrain will not be easy. Nevertheless, these changes also present exciting opportunities for us to innovate how we meet the challenges of tomorrow. At UCP of NYC we are committed to achieving even higher standards over the next several years as the Provider, Partner, and Employer of Choice.

Whether you are a donor, volunteer, community partner, staff or family member, each and every one of you is an important contributor to our future. We sincerely thank you for helping us meet our goals.

Because of you we can continue to provide exceptional supports and services to New Yorkers with disabilities and their families. Thank you for being part of the solution.

Edward R. Matthews
Chief Executive Officer

VOLUNTEER LEADERSHIP

VOLUNTEERISM AT UCP OF NYC

In this fast-paced world and even faster-paced city, UCP of NYC volunteers contribute their valuable free time to helping us reach our goals. We recognize the significance of their choice and are grateful for the creativity, kindness, and support they bring to our organization and the people we serve.

Our volunteers come to us to help others and in the process make friends and give back to the community. UCP of NYC volunteers bring an array of unique talents and beneficial skills to our programs, fundraisers, and administrative offices. Whether reading to preschoolers, playing music with adults, helping us with special events, or running a marathon for our benefit, volunteers at UCP of NYC are a vital component of everything we do.

This year UCP of NYC launched the Manhattan Advisory Council (MAC), a group of forward thinking, entrepreneurial, and philanthropic community members interested in helping UCP of NYC improve and expand services to people with disabilities. MAC is a new breed of volunteer leadership, and members include business leaders, artists, community organizers, caregivers, and supporters who are interested in advancing our mission through program development and increased community inclusion.

With the support of our volunteers, we are ensuring the strength and perpetuity of our UCP of NYC mission. Together, we are creating opportunities for people with disabilities to lead independent and fulfilling lives.
I believe in giving back to the community and always hope to inspire others to take the extra step to do more. I was drawn to UCP of NYC because I wanted to work with people with disabilities at an organization where I could be involved and really have an impact. The truth is, while I know I’m making a difference in the lives of others, the friendships I’ve developed at UCP of NYC have totally enriched my life.

Everyone has a story if you just take the time to listen. The program participants I work with appreciate the time I spend getting to know them, their personal histories, opinions, hopes, and dreams. They know that they can count on me for anything.

Volunteering at UCP of NYC has inspired me to advocate for people with disabilities in both my workplace and the community. We all have something to offer and there is so much we can learn about ourselves by just listening to one another.

“I volunteer at UCP of NYC because...it feels like family and I know together we are making a difference.”
In 2011, UCP of NYC launched an outreach initiative to develop partnerships with businesses and community organizations. These partnerships enable us to share our expertise and resources, generate cost and service delivery efficiencies, and create affirmative, mutually beneficial relationships that support the collective goals of everyone who participates.

UCP of NYC community partnerships are happening all over the city through a variety of programs. Through a partnership with Boswyck Farms we are expanding our hydroponic gardening program. Specialists from Boswyck Farms have been assisting with educational workshops, staff training, and the design and construction of our hydroponic systems. “It is our organizational commitment to demonstrate that anyone can be a farmer,” remarked Lee Mandell, Boswyck Farms’ Chief Hydroponicist. “We are thrilled to work with UCP of NYC to promote accessibility and community values.”

At Gustavus Adolphus Community Senior Lounge Center, our Media Arts Specialist has been teaching free, bi-weekly integrated photography classes to seniors and participants from UCP of NYC. Being out in the community among peers and neighbors while learning new skills gives participants a chance to make friends and feel empowered. Donald, a student from UCP of NYC, exemplifies the success of this program partnership. “Before I entered the class, I never really took pictures,” says Donald. “Now I advise the seniors on the cameras, and I’ve been appointed staff photographer for UCP of NYC Self Advocacy Council’s Empowered magazine.”

Partnerships give us the chance to bring people together. By working collaboratively and sharing resources with our partners, we are enhancing both the lives of the people we serve and the greater community.
HOWARD ANTHONY HILLEERY,
Founder and Director of Harlem Grown

At Harlem Grown we are always looking for opportunities for our students. We work with a very high-risk youth population and so we strive to expose them to as much as possible. Together with UCP of NYC, we have started providing weekly art classes to our second graders at P.S. 175. On Wednesdays, a UCP of NYC art teacher visits our classrooms to lead joint programming between our students and their artists. Not only do the children get to explore art-making, they also learn to become more open-minded, tolerant, and accepting of others.

We look forward to continuing our partnership with UCP of NYC in our wheelchair accessible garden, complete with greenhouse, where we can work side by side to grow fresh, healthy vegetables to share with the community.

"Harlem Grown partners with UCP of NYC because everyone has something to contribute, and we need to empower one another to be our very best."
Emerging technologies are improving the lives of individuals with disabilities. Assistive technology has the power to broaden horizons for children and adults, whether assisting with play and learning activities, aiding individuals with speech and communication, or helping a person perform a job duty. Assistive technologies help people with disabilities enjoy heightened independence and enable them to experience more of the world in which they live.

This year UCP of NYC developed a mobile resource to deliver technology into all five boroughs of NYC to serve anyone and everyone with special needs. Our state-of-the-art assistive technology resource van, TECHWORKS ToGo!, is outfitted with adaptive toys, computers, communication devices, mobility devices, and environmental controls. TECHWORKS ToGo! reaches elderly members of the community, children not already in our programs, people with visual and hearing impairments, veterans, individuals with traumatic brain injuries, patients recovering from strokes and many others.

We are proud to partner with senior centers, businesses, libraries, advocacy organizations, schools, and daycare centers whose clients benefit from learning more about how assistive technology can help them do and experience more in their lives. Workforce 1 Career Center, a part of the NYC Department of Small Business Services, utilizes UCP of NYC’s Adaptive and Assistive Technology Training, delivered by TECHWORKS ToGo! specialists, as part of their workshop offerings. Says Nancy Gannie, Equal Employment Opportunity Officer at Workforce 1: “The UCP of NYC facilitators are extremely knowledgeable and are able to address all of our questions and concerns. Their illustration of the use of various types of assistive technology devices and services is excellent. What a great team they are!”

For several years now, UCP of NYC has been partnering with Brooklyn Public Library’s Child’s Place for Children with Special Needs to serve children with disabilities including autism in a manner which is inclusive, employs universal design learning tools, and appreciates multiple intelligences so that all are welcome and engaged. In 2011, TECHWORKS ToGo! began collaborating with Brooklyn Public Library (BPL) Kidsmobile, a children’s library on wheels, to travel together to schools, community events, parks, camps, and more. Children visit the Kidsmobile for story time and then come aboard the TECHWORKS ToGo! van for a demonstration of adaptive toys and games. Children of all abilities throughout Brooklyn are learning and having fun together through this exciting collaboration.

In our UCP of NYC Universal Pre-K, Preschool, and School Age Programs children are benefitting from the use of SMART Board and iPad Technology in their classrooms. SMART Boards are oversized screens that employ touchscreen technology to create an interactive learning environment for developing minds. The large display screen helps deliver visuals, sounds, and a tactile experience to students, who in turn gain increased motor skill function, focus, and improved cognition. Similarly, iPads act as an interactive learning tool that can also be used in therapies for speech and augmentative communication. UCP of NYC educators use SMART Boards and iPads in conjunction with specialized learning software to improve early childhood development for children with special needs. Our educators are seeing great results meeting curriculum goals and maximizing the growth and independence of their students. UCP of NYC also offers a helping hand in the halls of higher education by way of our partnership with Bankstreet College of Education. Bankstreet offers a Masters level Autism Spectrum Annotation designed for educators certified to teach students with disabilities and for those certified in speech and language disabilities, who seek to provide a greater depth of service to more severely or multiply disabled children, including those who are on the autism spectrum.

As part of the annotation program, UCP of NYC specialists co-teach a course focused on the conceptual and practical applications of assistive technology in education. Our specialists use an interactive classroom approach so that students gain an in-depth understanding of assistive technology tools and how to incorporate them in lesson planning.

The course led by UCP of NYC is very popular among students and they frequently request more time to test-drive adaptive toys and technologies. “Cohort members continually praise the knowledge of UCP of NYC instructors and state they benefit most from the opportunity to carefully examine and try the technology equipment available at TECHWORKS,” says Marcia Singer, Program Director at Bankstreet. “We look forward to maintaining an ongoing relationship with UCP of NYC.”
Being present for families is important to us, regardless of how urgent the need or difficult the challenge. When early intervention programs stopped being funded, UCP of NYC sought support through grants and private donors to make sure families weren’t being left behind. In the spring of 2011 we launched the UCP of NYC Family Connect Centers with the intention of creating a space where families could access information, resources, professional guidance, and the support of one another.

The UCP of NYC Family Connect Centers offer workshops, lectures, and forums on a variety of topics led by educators, family resource specialists, and experts in the field. All calendar events are equipped with translation services for families who speak languages other than English. Examples of workshops include evaluation and placement options, entitlement and service coordination, transportation and travel planning, communication and literacy aids, as well as other topics relevant to support services. Through the UCP of NYC Family Connect Centers, families are encouraged to learn, explore resources, and participate in improving outcomes for children with delays and/or disabilities. Says Martha M., a mother who attends workshops at the Family Connect Center: “The workshops conducted by UCP of NYC are terrific. They provide me with a lot of information about the resources I can access to help my daughter.”

UCP of NYC’s Family Connect specialists partner with parents and caregivers to make sure everything possible is considered when catering to the unique needs of their child. Our specialists spend time getting to know families when making recommendations on services, help track the child’s development and eligibility for supports, and educate families on their rights and how to pursue the best options for their child.

In addition to providing families with a place to build skills, UCP of NYC’s Family Connect Centers are also a tremendous benefit to the greater professional community. Last year UCP of NYC launched the first Family Connect Conference, a free day-long educational event that drew educators, social workers, non-profit leaders, as well as families, to hear from industry thought leaders who presented sessions on special education, health care, sensory integration, inclusion, and assistive technology for individuals with developmental disabilities. Attendees commented on the high quality of the session presentations as well as the importance of having current research, information, and best practices available to them.

UCP of NYC is a provider and a partner to families because, through providing advocacy, information, and service coordination to families, we help them manage their needs so they can stay focused on family unity and community integration.

“The workshops conducted by UCP of NYC are terrific. They provide me with a lot of information about the resources I can access to help my daughter.”
UCP OF NYC EVENTS

WOMEN WHO CARE LUNCHEON

UCP of NYC was proud to celebrate the sold-out 10th Anniversary Women Who Care Luncheon on May 5, 2011, at Cipriani 42nd Street.

Women Who Care was created to honor female role models representing various segments of the community. It is a celebration of women who have deep concern for others and who are passionately committed to giving back. Women Who Care celebrates those whose extraordinary accomplishments and great character have inspired women around the world to achieve their fullest potential.

On Monday, July 25, 2011, UCP of NYC hosted the 10th Annual Golf Tournament and Celebrity Dinner at Brae Burn and Century Country Clubs in Purchase, New York. The popular tournament attracted over 200 golfers for a fun day of golf, entertainment, and to support the vital programs of UCP of NYC.

The celebrity co-hosts of the event were: Carolyn Kepcher, formerly of The Apprentice; film & television star Lauren LoGiudice (When Harry Tries to Marry); film & television star Timothy Mandala (The Ropes). The event was presented by the Carmel Family and Co-Chaired by Chris Laul, HOK, John Lombardo, Bank of New York Mellon, and Nicholas Rubino, Daiwa Capital Markets.
On June 26, 2011, Team UCP participated in the Achilles Hope & Possibility 5 mile Race in Central Park. Team UCP was the second largest team and was made up of over 100 members, including staff, supporters, and Honored Racers: individuals with disabilities. The Achilles Hope & Possibility Race celebrates and inspires athletes of all abilities and “walks” of life.

Team UCP sponsors included EmblemHealth, HOK, and The Loreen Arbus Foundation.
Beyond the core programs and services UCP of NYC delivers year round, proceeds from the Santa Project enable us to fund special needs equipment requests and purchase holiday gift cards for children and adults in our programs. Generous corporate community partners and organizations around New York City play a big part in helping us make the season brighter for the families we serve.

The 2011 Santa Project Reception and Silent Auction was held on December 7th at Harlem's new beer garden Bier International, and was hosted by supermodel/entrepreneur Camilla Barungi of Project Runway fame.

Santa Project sponsors included State Street, Sheer Print Solutions, Levien & Company, Inc., Wm. White Associates, JGPR, Harlem Grown, Michael & Vanessa White, Dr. Siasoco & Dr. Capoor, Bill & Sonya Dunham, Cynthia Gomez, Ramdeen's Electrical Contracting Corp., and the JI Group V-Force.

“I give to UCP of NYC because together we make it possible for people to realize their fullest potential.”
DONOR PROFILE | LOREEN ARBUS

My older sister Cookie was born with cerebral palsy, and both she and my family faced many challenges because of her severe disabilities. My father, Leonard H. Goldenson, then head of United Paramount Theaters and later Chairman and Founder of the ABC Television Network, encouraged my mother Isabelle to help start an organization that would advocate for people with disabilities while providing families with access to diagnosis and rehabilitation. When my parents envisioned United Cerebral Palsy, they saw it as a means to give all people an opportunity to lead independent and fulfilling lives.

Having made over 60 years of progress, United Cerebral Palsy has earned its reputation as the provider and partner of choice for individuals with disabilities and their families.

No matter how often I visit UCP of NYC’s facilities, I am ALWAYS amazed by the range of services and programs being offered. As founder of the Women Who Care Luncheon, I enjoy taking our Honorees and Committee members on tours so that they can experience the wonderful things happening in UCP of NYC’s programs. Together, we’ve watched children in the classroom explore their curriculum with the help of assistive technology. We’ve spoken with program participants through their use of augmentative communication devices. We’ve met with the self-advocacy group and learned about the sensitivity trainings they offer outside organizations. We have observed adults expressing their creativity in photography and art classes, and we have seen UCP of NYC gardeners growing vegetables to help feed others in the community.

What UCP of NYC does deeply touches my heart because it positively impacts the lives of so many by helping them understand their potential, how they can advocate for their rights and leverage their special talents and aptitudes. UCP of NYC facilitates a process of discovery that leads people toward their fullest potential and it is incredibly gratifying to see how parents, siblings, and caretakers come together to set goals. UCP of NYC’s programs and services ensure that the individuals they support have the best quality of life possible.

I give to UCP of NYC because together we make it possible for people to realize their fullest potential.
THE FOUNDERS CIRCLE

The Founders Circle recognizes corporations, foundations, and individuals for their extraordinary generosity and lifetime contributions in support of the mission and vision of United Cerebral Palsy of New York City. Members of the Founders’ Circle have made cumulative gifts in excess of $250,000.

The Founders Circle also honors a generation of dedicated parents who founded United Cerebral Palsy of New York City and helped to create national and international movements to improve care, undertake research, and to enrich the quality of life for children and adults with cerebral palsy and related disabilities. United Cerebral Palsy of New York City extends its heartfelt thanks to the families of Isabelle Weinstein Goldenson and Leonard H. Goldenson, Ethel and Jack Hausman, and Hilda Sault Sloan and Irving Sloan.

LEGACY SOCIETY

W henever you make a gift to United Cerebral Palsy of New York City (UCP of NYC), you express your deep commitment to children and adults with disabilities and their families. Through planned giving, you can assure a powerful legacy that enhances UCP of NYC’s ability to provide essential services in the present and to create more effective and efficient resources for people with disabilities in the future. When you put aside discretionary money for your child’s education or your own retirement, you build future equity. Similarly, bequests and charitable trusts enable UCP of NYC to invest your gift and thus provide additional revenue year after year. UCP of NYC’s Legacy Society recognizes those special donors who have taken steps to leave a legacy to our organization, thus helping us ensure increased independence and a higher quality of life for children and adults with developmental disabilities.

BEQUESTS

One of the simplest ways to leave a legacy to UCP of NYC is through your will. Within your will, you can include charitable bequests which can be gifts of a fixed amount, or a percent of your estate, or all or part of the residue of your estate, to be given to UPC of NYC and other qualified charitable institutions after you are deceased. A bequest may consist of cash, securities, or real property. It may also consist of a trust set up through your will.

While the following wording for bequests is offered for your consideration, UCP of NYC recommends that you consult a legal or financial advisor in preparing a planned gift.

“I hereby give, devise, and bequeath to United Cerebral Palsy of New York City, Inc.,...the sum of $______."

(For a gift of a fixed amount)

OR

...an amount equal to _____% of the value of my estate.”

(For a gift as a percentage of an estate)

OR

.....whatever remains of my estate” or ... ________% of whatever remains of my estate after all specific bequests have been made and after all taxes, fees and other costs of administering my estate have been paid.”

(For a gift as a residual of an estate)

REMAINDER TRUSTS and UNITRUSTS

The advantages of Charitable Remainder Trusts and Unitrusts are that the rate you (and your beneficiary) receive annually is agreed upon by you and the trustee when the trust is created. Other advantages of charitable remainder trusts are that you receive an income tax deduction at the time the trust is created, and that you generally avoid tax on the capital gain when transferring appreciated property. Both trusts can be invested so that part of the annual payments is favorably taxed and part can be tax-free altogether.

For more information regarding the UCP of NYC Legacy Society, please contact Sheila Lennon at 212.683.6700 or slennon@ucpny.org.
UNITED CEREBRAL PALSY OF NEW YORK CITY ACKNOWLEDGES WITH DEEP APPRECIATION OUR MANY FRIENDS AND SUPPORTERS WHO HAVE MADE PROVISIONS FOR UCP OF NYC IN THEIR ESTATE PLANNING OR HAVE GIVEN A LEGACY THROUGH A BEQUEST OR A GIFT ANNUITY.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR

Vincent Siasoco, MD
United Cerebral Palsy of New York City is honored to dedicate its 2011 annual report to Joseph M. Gindi, who passed away in July 2011. Joe demonstrated incredible concern for others and never faltered in his leadership and dedication to UCP of NYC. He was a member of the board for 47 years and served as a Vice President for many of them.

Joe carved out a special place in his heart for the children and families supported by UCP of NYC and took great joy in spearheading projects to celebrate them. Joe initiated and underwrote an annual holiday wreath contest featuring an exhibition of wreaths created by children in our education programs. All wreath entries were displayed in the lobby and street level windows of our Manhattan flagship site on 23rd Street and, in some years, the prize-winning holiday wreaths were exhibited in other public sites, including the Arsenal on Fifth Avenue in Central Park. UCP of NYC currently conducts year-round arts programs for children and adults and carries on Joe’s tradition by using art-work created in our programs for all of our holiday cards.

In the 1970’s UCP of NYC started an annual Bike-a-thon in Central Park that would continue for nearly 30 years. The event aimed to raise funds and awareness, while also encouraging New Yorkers to reclaim their public parks during a time when they were still considered dangerous. Over the course of 20 years, and with the annual participation of thousands of families, the Bike-a-thon expanded to include Prospect Park in Brooklyn and Silver Lake Park on Staten Island. Joe loved this effort. As the Managing Partner of Caesar’s Bay Bazaar in Brooklyn, he arranged for a corporate sponsorship of the Prospect Park Bike-a-thon, which the company went on to support for over ten years. Today, Team UCP joins more than 6,000 participants in Central Park to celebrate athletes with disabilities at the annual Achilles International Hope & Possibility Race.

Every day thousands of individuals with disabilities in New York City enjoy more independent and productive lives because of Joe Gindi’s commitment to UCP of NYC. We honor his memory and are grateful to his family for so graciously sharing him with us so that he could be an important part of the UCP of NYC family.

LOOKING AHEAD

Looking ahead, we remain committed to working closely with individuals, family members, and caregivers to offer personalized services aligned with individual needs, ambitions, and expressed values.

We take choice seriously and are dedicated to being the Provider, Partner, and Employer of Choice.

In responding to the evolving needs and desires of the people we serve, we are constantly innovating the way we support our community. With the assistance of UCP of NYC, individuals who wish to live alone are moving out of supervised group residences into apartments of their own. More and more often, adults enrolled in our daytime programs and services are meeting at places out in the community, at libraries, schools, senior centers, and health clubs. Our Assistive Technology resources are helping people in jobs, in the classroom, and at home throughout New York City.

As a mission-driven organization, we are always working hard to facilitate opportunities for the people we serve to be part of a better-integrated world. Our Universal Pre-K programs are giving children with and without developmental disabilities the chance to learn together and build friendships. We continue to pursue supported employment opportunities for the people we serve, because everyone benefits when they have an employee who is reliable, hardworking, enthusiastic, and proud of his or her job.

For us, choice is paramount to everything we do.

Thank you for choosing UCP of NYC. Together, we are creating opportunities for people with disabilities to lead independent and fulfilling lives.
